Bonnie Gagne is a Registered Clinical Social Worker with 25 years of experience in therapy and mental health. She earned her Master of Social Work in 1996 from Wilfrid Laurier University. During Bonnie's years she became interested in working with foster and adoptive children who have histories of abuse, trauma, neglect and loss of caregivers. Often these children have challenges in building relationships with adults who care for them.

My goal is to provide clinical support and consultation to enable these children to build healthy relationships now and in the future. My private practice focuses on repairing the impact of Complex Developmental Trauma in children and provides the necessary knowledge and skills for caregivers to help the child heal the affects of trauma, abuse and neglect.

In 2007, Bonnie started her training with Daniel Hughes and she continues to consult with Arthur Becker-Weidman. Bonnie has presented to various local agencies the impact of Complex trauma on children.
